

Is there a link between fractal dimension and residential environment at a regional level?